Chapbook Italic

typefaces by Feòrag NicBhrìde

The Chapbook family of typefaces is based on the type used in the 17th century equivalent of pulp literature. It includes regular and italic fonts, and a set of period dingbats.

Version 3 has been radically reworked. The glyphs are more balanced, and the italics consistent. There are many more characters and a few more illustrations have been added to the separate dingbats font. It is now an OpenType font using Unicode—the long-s and various ligatures have moved accordingly. They can be found using the Glyphs/Special Characters menu item in most MacOS X applications.

A number of special ligatures can be found in the Private Use area, and these can be accessed the same way.

This archive contains the TTF versions of the font, which can be used on MacOS X, Linux and Windows. It includes the following files:

- About Chapbook TTF.pdf - this file.
- Chapbook.ttf, Chapbook-Italic.ttf and Chapbook-dingbats.ttf - the font files In MacOS X, double click on these to see a preview. Click on the “Install Font” button to install.

A PostScript flavoured OpenType version is also available.

License and Notes

This typeface is licensed under the Creative Commons Attribution-NonCommercial-ShareAlike License. To view a copy of this license, visit <http://creativecommons.org/licenses/by-nc-sa/2.0/> or send a letter to Creative Commons, 559 Nathan Abbott Way, Stanford, California 94305, USA.

Note that the license includes the provision “Any of these conditions can be waived if you get permission from the copyright holder”. You already have my permission to use this font for commercial purposes, such as in a magazine or advertising, and do not need to ask (though a copy of whatever you used it for would be nice). If you wish to redistribute this font commercially, including on a website with paid advertising, you must still get my permission to do so and “you must make clear to others the license terms of this work”.
